Latens Makes Top Twenty in Deloitte Technology Fast 50 Awards

Innovative company ranked 17th in Ireland's top 50 fastest growing technology companies

Belfast, UK, 19th October 2009 – Latens, the leading provider of software based conditional access (CAS) and middleware technology for the digital Pay TV industry, today announce that it has been awarded a ranking at number 17 in the Deloitte Technology Fast 50 Awards, Ireland.

Latens' first ever appearance in the prestigious list recognises the company's achievements in successfully growing and developing the business since its foundation just seven years ago.

Now in its tenth year in Ireland, the Fast 50 programme ranks the fastest-growing technology companies in the Republic of Ireland and Northern Ireland, based on average percentage revenue growth over five years.

Latens software products enable Pay TV operators around the world to enhance TV viewing experiences and to prevent content piracy, so helping to both generate and protect revenue.

According to Latens CEO Jeremy Thorp, the company's steady revenue growth has been achieved by the strong dedication and hard work of all the Latens team, backed by the company ethos of always striving to deliver superior products and customer service.

"Latens is delighted to be ranked for the first time in the Deloitte Top 50 Technology Awards, which is testament to the commitment of our talented workforce worldwide," he says. "Through our continually innovative technology and world class professional services, Latens continues to lead the way in enabling Pay TV operators to secure their valuable content and to offer a compelling viewer experience."

Announcing the winners of the Technology Fast 50 programme, David Coates, Associate Partner at Deloitte in Belfast said: "The aim of this year's Fast 50 was to showcase the resilience and determination of Ireland's indigenous technology industry, and this has certainly been achieved by Latens.

"Our winners show that they are rising above the challenging business environment, and are proof that inventive companies will continue to be successful," Coates added.
